Quakertown Crane Operator Said To Make At Least $100 A Week

WIFE, A CROYDONITE

Court Almost Bedlam As Attorneys Attempt Explanations

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 17—A Quakertown crane operator who makes $100 a week, and often more, was ordered by Judge Keller to pay $70 a week toward the support of his wife and three of their five children.

The husband is Arthur J. Stuber, whose wife, Bertha, lives at Croydon, where she operates a grocery store. The husband is employed by a Quakertown contractor.

The court room was almost in a bedlam as the attorneys for the husband and wife, tried in vain to explain to the judge "their side of the case."

The climax was reached when the order was made, and Attorney I. Louis Rubin, representing the husband, informed the court that his client would go bankrupt if he had to pay $70 a week to his wife, and also put up $1,000 security to comply with the order.

"It just can't be done," Attorney Rubin remarked to the court and then advised his client to take a seat in prisoners' row, and sit it out a while in jail, and see what happens.

Judge Keller intimated that the order was "temporary," and indicated that there would be future developments in the case.

The case of the Commonwealth against Miss Pearl Ruth Tarantino, of Quakertown RD, charged with the murder of her baby born out of wedlock, was called before the Grand Jury.

Judge Keller charged the jury on the crime of murder. The panel composed of men and women, then retired to deliberate and later found a true bill in the case.

Miss Tarantino was brought to the court room from the county prison by Warden Earl D. Handy and Deputy Sheriff Pearl Smith.

WIPE OUT LABOR LAWS?

A recent remark by John L. Lewis opens up a most interesting field of speculation.

The coal fields labor boss suggested that the United States go without any labor law for a period, while the unions, management and the government jointly worked out a substitute for the Taft-Hartley Act.

Lewis, of course, was backing up the "two-package" approach to the labor-law tangle. He favors the plan of doing away with the Taft-Hartley law at once and in full, as the first "package"; and then trusting to luck, lobbies and White House pressures to give the union bosses the best of it in whatever amendments are written into the Wagner Act.

The "one-package" school of thought wishes to see the amendments agreed upon ahead of time, and put through in the same law that repeals the Taft-Hartley Act. Unless Congress changes its present plans, it will follow this second and much safer and saner method.

But the interesting part of the Lewis comment has little to do with the question of how and when the Federal labor laws are to be amended.

Suppose the U. S. government were to repeal both the Taft-Hartley and the Wagner Acts? Suppose it were to go out of the labor-law business entirely? Suppose it should wash its hands of this problem just as completely as it does, for example, in the field of divorce law?

What then?

Regulation of labor would then return to the hands of the states. Would this be good or bad?

Actually, it would have many advantages. Particularly so just at the present time.

It is only a month or so ago that the U. S. Supreme Court, in an opinion, pointed out certain facts with reference to the power of the states to deal with the labor problem.

This decision upheld the rights of states to pass their own regulations, and enforce them, without reference to whether these laws follow the pattern of the Federal statutes.

As a matter of fact, this decision was like a breath of fresh air, in that it recalled to the American people and to their national administration certain basic facts about the Constitution.

SAY WOMAN TRIED TO HIT THE POLICE PATROL CAR HERE

Mary Bradley, 35, Bath Rd., Later Attempts Suicide, It Is Claimed

TWO HELD FOR COURT

Officer McCahan Says The Woman Continually Hit Him on Way to Station

A woman arrested for drunken driving after allegedly making several attempts to run down the Bristol police patrol car, last evening, later made an attempt to hang herself at police headquarters here, according to the police.

Mary Bradley, 35, Bath road and Silver Lake, was held for court this morning, charged with drunken driving. James Cullen, Cedar street, who police report was in the car, was held for court on a charge of permitting a violation in an automobile.

According to the police, a call was received at headquarters shortly after six o'clock last evening, that a car was zig-zagging along Buckley street. Officer McCahan went in search of the car and chased it down Buckley street to Bath, and as he pulled up alongside of the machine two or three different times, the operator of the car endeavored to crash into the police car. It is said. Finally McCahan was able to apprehend the occupants near the Bath street bridge, and placed the Bradley woman and Cullen under arrest. As he was taking the two occupants to police headquarters, the officer reports that the Bradley woman continually hit him over the head.

After the couple had been lodged in cells, some time later during the evening the attention of Officer Dugan, who was on desk duty, was attracted to the cell room. There, it is stated, he found the Bradley woman had taken off her slip, made a loop as if to fit around her neck, and fastened the other end to the cell bars. She told police that she was going to commit suicide to save her children from disgrace.

The couple was given a hearing this morning before Justice of the Peace.

"Pinocchio" Won Great Fame For The Author

Colodi, the author of the captivating adventures of the amazing little puppet, "Pinocchio," which will be presented by the Clare Tree Major Children's Theatre at the Grand Theatre, Saturday at 10 a. m., is another in the long list of authors who labored a lifetime to achieve renown through the written word only to have fame thrust upon them from the most unexpected source—the children of the world.

Up to the time the author Colodi, a dignified and elderly gentleman, had invented the merry mischievous wooden boy, he had written nothing but ponderous, sober adult books. Colodi is now dead; his works for grown-ups forgotten—but "Pinocchio" the one story he penned for children has given him a real claim to world fame.

The New York cast which will perform "Pinocchio" here was selected and directed by Clare Tree Major. Tickets are on sale at all Bristol and Bristol township public schools. St. Ann's school, Dries, Paroly's Peter-Pan and Bristol Travel Service.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan (Distributed by International News Service)

Wallace shouldn't feel too badly if his budget isn't adopted. Truman's doesn't stand much chance either.

But it was sporting of Henry to give us his opinion after the one we gave him in November.

And it must be said for Henry that he accomplished in 12 pages what it took Harry 1429 pages to do . . . confuse us.

But these are confusing times. New York housewives are protesting a bill to fingerprint them. They feel their job is removing prints . . . not leaving them.

If the bill passes, housewives will be expected to provide references from their last employer and a soup plate containing an inside print.

The American labor party is protesting the bill . . . also the Communist trial, the governor's budget, military training and the unseasonable weather.

WATCHING FARM LANDS

In real estate circles throughout the country California farm land values are being eyed closely.
During the past year values of grape, orange, date, olive and walnut producing land have slid 30 to 50 per cent. Specialty crop land which brought $4,000 to $5,000 an acre has been deflated by one-half.
The lush war income has evaporated.

Land of that type is regarded as the barometer of farm land values throughout the country. It increases in value first and most rapidly in boom times and is first to decline in a period of deflation.

The California trend is of interest to the wheat and corn country to the plains and prairies, where the price of wheat has declined from $3 a bushel to $1.75, corn from nearly $3 to 1.25, and livestock losses from this winter's blizzards have been sweeping and costly.

On the basis of present prospects, farm income this year will be reduced greatly. And when income declines, farm land values are not slow in following. The citizen who saved his money to buy a farm, but hesitated because of climbing prices, may realize his ambition in the next year or two at a figure that will seem like a bargain.

Whatever happens to farm values, it is well to keep the thought in mind that it is a mighty good thing to possess. There is no better asset than a paid for farm.

CHARM SCHOOL

Better service to the public is the goal of a "charm school" which has been started for employees of the city of Milwaukee.
Workers are given time off from regular duties to attend classes.

The course consists of eight one-hour lessons, in which those taking it are briefed in the art of pleasant, courteous, prompt and efficient service. Diplomas are awarded to those who pass the exams. So far 90 have graduated. All are reported to be enthusiastic over the opportunity to improve their relations with the public.

The idea was conceived by Milwaukee's 32-year-old mayor, Frank P. Zeidler. The school is the first of its kind in the nation.
In personal contact or over the telephone workers must be pleasant and courteous at all times and demonstrate eagerness to serve that is not universal among public employees.

To take the attitude that the public is always right frequently taxes the patience of the most earnest public employee. But to meet day-to-day problems with courtesy and sincerity is certain to prove helpful.

Before long readers will be regaled with a series of articles on
"I Hanged the Japs" or "My Last Days with Tojo."

No wonder Joe Stalin thinks Uncle Sam will go broke. He has only five United Nations children to support. Uncle Sam has 47.

Wipe Out Labor Laws?

It pointed out, for example, that the powers of the national government are merely those listed or implied by the Constitution, whereas the states have "sovereign" power in all matters not covered by the Constitution. It pointed out, also, that the reserve police authority, and the responsibility for maintaining law and order, was much more the business of the states than of the Federal government. It reminded the advocates of centralized government, in wholesome fashion, that it was a deliberate intention of the writers of our Constitution to give the people of each state power to run things to suit themselves, without reference to the question of whether some other state did it differently.

If this opinion is to be taken at its face value, the States can do pretty much as they please in dealing with all labor matters not involving interstate commerce. The Federal labor laws, in the main, were intended to cover only interstate questions — although the interpretation of what is "interstate" has been stretched to cover an absurdly broad territory.

Many times in the past, state laws and Federal laws have collided. Usually, the Washington bureaucrats have had the say. One of the details in the Taft-Hartley Act was a clause recognizing the validity of state laws. This provision probably was slated for being wiped out at the hands of the labor bosses and the Truman followers in Congress — but of course the Supreme Court decision makes it unnecessary anyway.

Part of the tangle into which U. S. labor issues have fallen has been the result of the attempts to write one national law which would be satisfactory in all parts of the country, despite social, economic and other differences.

The labor-law approach desired in Wyoming, or Mississippi, or Florida, for example, is wholly different from the needs of industrial states such as Pennsylvania, Michigan, New Jersey.

The fact that there is little uniformity in the labor laws now on the state statute books is, therefore, no valid objection to letting the states handle this problem.

Some states banned the closed-shop long before the Taft-Hartley Act did so. Some states have laws against jurisdictional strikes and secondary boycotts. Nearly all have laws which, if enforced, would stop the unhappy occurrence of picket-line violence, beating up of non-strikers, etc., etc. In some instances, the states have blazed trails which the Federal government has been slow to follow. Pennsylvania, for instance, banned the sit-down strike well before the national labor laws did so.

There is no valid reason in political science why the states could not deal with the labor problem quite as well as the Federal government. As a matter of fact, anyone who looks carefully over Uncle Sam's labor record for the past fifteen years or so might conclude that they wouldn't have to do much to make a better showing.

The states have available, in virtually all cases, their own labor-relations set-ups, entirely adequate for taking charge. They have their court systems. Many have their police units. All have available through their county and municipal police systems, sufficient law-enforcement agents.

The one serious question which might arise is whether national labor organizations might not be able to concentrate irresistible pressures upon state legislatures one at a time. But they already are doing this, in more insidious and dangerous fashion, on the Congressional districts. At the State level, such attempted pressures would be more out in the open than they are today, and probably easier to resist than now.

If union leadership would be content with what 99 per cent of the union members themselves want — which is simply a square deal in collective bargaining — they certainly should have no complaints in working with and through the state governments.

The experiment which John L. Lewis mentioned might be worth trying — not for a month or so, but for a period of years. It may be that eventually the solution to the troublesome issue of labor relations lies in that direction.

Approves Charter For V. F. W. Home Ass'n

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 17.—The granting of a charter to the Home Association of Bowers-Hartman-Marzlik Post, No. 9158, Veterans of Foreign Wars, of Andalusia, was approved this morning by President Judge Hiram H. Keller, in the Court of Common Pleas, here.

The charter will be granted in the name of "The Veterans of Andalusia." Testimony was presented at the hearing by two witnesses, William F. Reimp, Andalusia, and Samuel Parker, Cornwells Heights. The applicants were represented by J. Lawrence Monroe, Esq.

During the testimony, Reimp testified that social membership is to be limited to 40 per cent, other classes of membership in the association to be "active" and "auxiliary." Judge Keller advised the organization to lower, if possible, the percentage of social members. The Court pointed out that high percentage of social membership is one of the drawbacks in granting charters.

The Court was informed that one reason why the veterans of Bensalem township are applying for a charter at this time is that in case there is an opening in the quota for liquor licenses in that township in the future that the Home Association can apply for it and be heard. It was testified that the post has $335 in the treasury, a building site available, and a knock down building which they plan to erect on the site. It was testified that money the association now has was raised by rummage sales, card parties, and drives among members.

Parker testified that the post has 49 over-seas veteran members and that recently the post received a $500 gift from the auxiliary to develop this project.

A few weeks ago I was talking with a man in his store. He said that he would come to church if I would promise that he wouldn't have to take part in any of the church's organization. I didn't make the promise, and the man didn't come to church. What he meant was, "I like my religion in tablet form." What he didn't know was that the disease of religious indifference is recurrent, and the prescription of church attendance is not a cure-all. All sermons are not world-shaking, and all worship is not equally inspiring. The point is that God cannot be cooped up in a stone building for an hour a week, anymore than you can expect to be religious without carrying your prescription out into the world to help others.

BORDENTOWN FIVE SWAMPED BY THE BRISTOL ALL-STARS

The All-Star team of the Bristol Basketball League packed plenty of scoring punch last night as it whipped the Bordentown Manual Training School aggregation on the Robm and Haas floor. A total of 143 points was scored in the 40 minutes of playing as the All-Stars rolled up an 81-60 win.

Outstanding in the All-Stars' victory were two players of the Philadelphians' team "Johnny" Rodgers and "Tommy" Donnelly. Rodgers cut the cords for 12 fielders and a foul for 25 points while Donnelly came through with several wonderful shots to chip in with 16 points.

The All-Star aggregation came through in the second half of the game to mass up their total of points. The Bordentown contingent, outplayed them with their speed during most of the first half although a spurt towards the finish put the All-Stars one point behind, 36-35. At one time, the Stars were ten points behind and could not match the speed of the visiting team.

At the start of the second half, the All-Stars went ahead for the first time, 37-36, on Rodgers' goal. The lead see-sawed back and forth until Donnelly and Rodgers took turns in scoring baskets. By the end of the third session, the picked league team was eight points to the good.

The Manual Training School team was tired in the final quarter and even the fresh men sent in by Coach "Charlie" Ray could not stop the Bristol scorers. "Johnny" Findar broke loose in the last session to score six more points to bring his total to 11 for the night. "Herb" Thomas, fast forward of the Bordentown team garnered 12 field goals and two fouls for 26 points while "Jake" Jacobs came through with 12 points.

Rohm & Haas Scouts Easily Defeat St. Mark's

The Rohm & Haas Boy Scout Troop, No. 35, scored in easy victory over the St. Mark's Fifth Grade team last night in the preliminary game on the Robm & Haas floor. Final score was 15-10.

The Boy Scouts had too much height for the parochial school students and used this to a big advantage in controlling the boards and intercepting passes.

Frank Rubino, Gene Everick and Ralph Galtieri each accounted for a quartet of field goals for "Robby" Weidenman's lads, while the best player for Coach George Dougherty's army was Jack Rowe who had 16 of the 16 points.

The Scouts led at the half-way mark by a 13-4 score.

The board will be asked to appoint one of its members to give a report on negotiations with the Pennsylvania Economy League and the Institute for Local and State Government and to have others there to reply to any questions asked from the audience following the report. It is the object of the PTA executive committee that the appearance of the full board at the meeting will help dispel any misunderstandings that may have arisen and clarify the position and aims of the school board in the matter of providing adequate educational facilities for the community.

At the March meeting, too, it will be the duty of current PTA president Weir to appoint a nominating committee to select a slate of officers for the 1949-1950 PTA season. Because of the increased interest in PTA this season and the much larger turn-out, Mr. Weir announced that it is his intention to have the audience itself appoint members for the nominating committee in order that the officers finally elected will truly represent the interests and wishes of everyone in any way connected with PTA.

PHONE! If it isn't convenient to come into town, by all means phone to Snellenburgs and take advantage of their excellent personal shopping service. There are several numbers you can call, depending upon where you live. Town dwellers may call LOcust 7-5200. Philadelphia suburbanites may call EXtortoise 1-9150. Camden suburbanites may call WX-1150. This personal shopping service has been speeded up and streamlined for accurate selection and quick delivery. By the way, you'll find easy parking for Snellenburgs shopping—at the rear of the shop, in the Stephen Girard Garage.

NEWEST THING for helping us housewives is plastic starch! What next will Snellenburgs have for our convenience? This new miracle keeps clothes starched through eight whole launderings! Clothes last longer, because the protective coating prevents dirt infiltration. One quart of "Plasta Starch" does the work of eight quarts of regular starch. Only 69c a full quart, economy size half-gallon $1.19, super-size gallon $1.98. I can't wait to pretty-up my curtains! Find or order "Plasta Starch" in the Housewares Dept. (3rd fl.)

NECKWEAR TOUCHES, clean and crisp, are beloved by the best dressed. Now, as winter closes, you'll see them blossoming on suits and dark frocks. The Neckwear Dept. of Snellenburgs has a new spring collection of dickies, collars, collar and cuff sets, jabots, pussy-cat bows, etc. There is a choice of piques, laces, sheers, etc., not only in pristine white but in soft blue or pink. Prices range, generally, from 95c to $3.95. Such accessories make perfect February and March birthday gifts! (1st fl.)

VIOLETS on a window sill—what lovelier sign of budding spring hopes? Perhaps we can't provide our sills with wood violets so early in the year, but potted African violets are gorgeous substitutes. The Garden Corner of Snellenburgs has pots of them ready for us. Don't be alarmed about caring for them. Just ask one of the Garden Corner folks about that. It's really quite simple. Don't forget, too, that these royal purple beauties make heart-lifting gifts! They cost but 98c a pot. (1st fl.)

SIT-UP AND STUDIO couch pillows are not always easy to find, but the Art Needlework Dept. of Snellenburgs endeavors to keep a supply on hand. Prices are most reasonable. Studio couch pillows, firmly cotton filled, with tailored edges, covered in a floral pattern, cost but $1.98 each. They're easy to recover. If you wish to have those heavenly sit-up pillows, triangled to adjust to the back in many ways, cost but $2.25. They, too, are floral covered, tailor-edged. (2nd fl.)

NEWS OF INTEREST TO PA. FARMERS

By John Harms

(INS. Penna. Farm Editor)
HARRISBURG, Feb. 17—(INS)—
Pennsylvania State College experts have predicted that as soon as the unusual pressure of increased agricultural production lifts many elderly farmers will retire and put the farm in the hands of sons.
Earle L. Moffitt and Monroe J. Arnes said the younger generation has the inclination and the experience and ability to carry on in their fathers' tradition.
They predict farm boys will try to outstrip their dad's achievement and in many cases they will do it. The farmer who takes over in this day and age has the benefit of modern research and science at his disposal that his father did not have.
One big attraction to keep the boys on the farm is the advance of farm machinery. Farming today is easier and a great deal more can be done than previously and widespread use of electricity has done much to improve the operation of the farm and the quality of its products.
But young farmers were warned to operate their farms in a business-like fashion since farming today is a highly competitive business.

Have you ever thought of adding an airplane to your farm equipment?
Reginald Wood, secretary of the Pennsylvania Flying Farmers' Association, said that small airplanes earn their keep because of the many uses farmers find for them.
For example, a farmer can fly sick chickens to agricultural laboratories, spray fields, lug machine parts, sow clover, go to market and many other useful jobs.

Wood said the planes can be operated as cheaply as low-cost automobiles and some new planes bear the same list price as new inexpensive cars.
One two-place, 100-mile an hour model sells at $1,995 while an all-metal plane was listed at $2,495—less than the cost of most new convertibles, Wood said.

The Bureau of Agriculture Economics predicts life on the farm will remain costly this year. Feed grains are down, the bureau said, but they'll be offset by prices farmers will have to pay for almost every other item used. The result will be a level of cost not much off the 1948 record.

ADVISES HOUSEWIVES TO VARY THE BASIC FOODS FOR FAMILY

By Miss Frances Vannoy
Home Economics Representative
The reputation of a good cook is not built so much on fancy dishes but on her light fluffy biscuits, tender cakes, smooth sauces, and other basic foods.

Day-by-day cooking for a family requires skillful use of left-overs and plentiful foods to keep within the budget. Several basic recipes, hundreds of tasty food variations can be worked out.

A wise cook learns to make good white sauce, biscuits, muffins, plain cake, French dressing, and other foundation recipes. Only then, can she use her imagination to develop variations from what she has on hand.

A basic white sauce is good for dozens of recipes. A bit of left-over cheese added to the sauce will dress up the dinner vegetable. To perk up leftover vegetables scallop them with cheese sauce and top with bread crumbs. Chopped hard-boiled eggs and lemon juice combined with white sauce make an excellent topping for fish. Use mushrooms, onion, parsley, and pimento for other variations.

Baking powder biscuits also may be varied. Several good additions to biscuits are grated cheese, chopped nuts, orange rind, Roquefort cheese, or chives.

Flaky biscuit cinnamon rolls are a special treat. A neat roll made of chopped leftover meat and biscuits can be rolled up like a jelly roll. Served with a good sauce this is a change from ordinary hash.

Variety to muffins can be given by adding crumbled bacon, dried fruits, or berries. Leftover cooked vegetables may be marinated in a well-seasoned, homemade French dressing and served as salad.

Simply "warming up" leftovers may result in drab meals. Using leftovers in the interesting ways will make each meal a pleasure to the family and an achievement for the cook.

LANCASTER, Pa. (INS)—The 1949 conference of the American College Public Relations Association will be held April 25 to 29 in Washington, D. C. Max E. Hannum, president of the organization, announced the meeting dates.

REASONS NUMEROUS FOR SHORTAGE OF LARGE SIZE DRESSES

By Miss Frances Vannoy
(Home Economics Representative)

Although government statistics show that there are nearly 14 million women between the ages of 30 and 61 who weigh 110 pounds or more, and only six million within the same age range who weigh 100 to 115 pounds, the women in the latter group are getting the most fashion attention. The heavier women, often the ones who have the most figure problems, receive very little help in their selection. There are several reasons for this.

Dresses in smaller sizes require less material and manufacturers fell into the habit of making small-sized dresses when fabrics were limited.

Some sales women say it is easier and more fun to sell a size 12 than a size 48. The large woman, because of her size and attitude toward her size, needs special attention which few salespeople are willing to give.

Another reason given is that larger women do not buy so many clothes as the smaller women. Therefore, the turnover in stock is low. Women who shop for dresses in sizes larger than 18 report that they find very few designs from which to choose. When they are fortunate enough to find a dress that fits well, they buy it regardless of style. Few stores put any emphasis upon garments for large women.

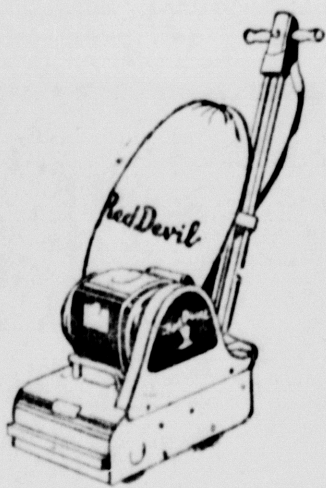

Because of this shortage of large-sized dresses, many women are buying patterns and making their own clothes. A large pattern distributor reports that of the patterns sold in sizes 21 to 46, more than a third are in sizes from 40 to 46. Another pattern company specializes in patterns for young girls, but sells 11 per cent of its patterns for sizes 40 to 56. A third company which specializes in older women's sizes, reports that 40 per cent of the patterns sold are in sizes 40 to 46.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (INS)—A number of little Albuquerque boys did a booming business selling human skulls and bones before workmen discovered the source. The workers were digging a sewer trench along the middle of a street and their mechanical ditch-digger was located over a graveyard.

INVITE SCHOOLS TO PROMOTE CONTEST

Elks Committee Writes All Secondary Schools In Area

OFFER MANY PRIZES

A letter was made public today which has been written to every secondary school principal — public, private, and parochial, in Bucks County, relative to the national essay contest being conducted by Elks lodges throughout the country. The letter signed by Walter D. Miller, chairman of Local Committee follows:

Dear sir:

Each secondary school in Bucks County, public, parochial, and private, is being invited through our local committee of Bristol Lodge No. 970 to participate in a nationwide essay contest sponsored by the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

Students in grades nine to twelve inclusive are eligible to submit essays on the topic, "Why Democracy Works". The purpose of this competition is to encourage students to study democracy in operation, to appraise democracy in the light of its achievements, and the hope it holds for the future.

The Order of Elks has faith in America's youth. Grand Exalted Ruler George I. Hall declared recently: "We have no fear that our youth will fall victims in any appreciable numbers to totalitarian philosophies. Certainly they never will when they know the facts of mankind's progress and achievements under the stimulus of democratic freedom, and the facts of mankind's spiritual, political, and physical enslavement under totalitarianism."

Awards for the prize-winning essays will be made as follows in U. S. Government Savings Bonds:

National Awards: First Award, $1,000; Second Award, $500; Third Award, $250; Five Awards of $50, each.

South-East District Awards: First Award, $100; Second Award, $50; Third Award, $25.

State Awards: First Award, $200; Second Award, $100; Third Award, $50; Teacher's Award, $25.

Local Awards: B.P.O.E. Lodge No. 970 will offer the following: First Award, $100; Second Award, $50; Third Award, $25.

Any student enrolled in a grade from the ninth to the twelfth, inclusive, of any public, parochial, or private school, and who is a resident within the jurisdiction of the Order, is eligible to enter the competition.

Essays must be not less than 300 words nor more than 750 words in length, and must be the original work of the contestant. It is understood that any manuscript prepared in whole or in part by any person other than the contestant will be ineligible for an award.

Manuscripts must be written in ink, in the contestant's own handwriting, on white paper 8½ by 11 inches in size, using one side only. The signature of the author and his or her address must appear at the end of the manuscript.
